

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

[00100] A digital content transmission and reception system that uses a profile to notify a user of content is described. The content transmission and reception system compares a user profile with descriptive data for entertainment content that is to be simultaneously broadcast to the user and causes a notification system to notify the user when the content is of probably interest.

TELETYPE